

David Craik, Ph.D.

Group Leader, Chemistry and Structural
Biology Division, The University of Queensland

Dr. David's work focuses on Protein structure in drug and insecticide design. His research discovers and determines structural information on peptides and proteins to design drugs to more effectively treat human disease and develop natural protein-based insecticides.